Market commentary

In January, global markets were characterised by considerable volatility, driven largely by heightened geopolitical tensions and uncertainty, particularly following the inauguration of US President Trump.

In this investment environment, global listed infrastructure was less volatile and displayed its inherent resilience, holding up to end the month flat (in A$ terms).

Railways was the top-performing subsector, rebounding strongly on encouraging earnings and an improved outlook for traffic volumes. In contrast, Marine Ports was the weakest performer, hampered in part by the prospect of new tariffs as mooted by President Trump.

Argo Infrastructure will report its half-year results on Friday 21 February 2025. For details, see Key Dates in our Shareholder Centre.
